First National Bank’s Tributary Small Company Fund Recognized as a ‘Star in the Shadows’ by Mutual Fund Observer

(Omaha, NE – Jan. 10, 2017) – The Tributary Small Company fund (FOSCX) was recently named a “Star in the Shadows” by Mutual Fund Observer, an independent online resource that researches and reports on fund investing and fund communication strategies. In its review, the site stated that “Tributary Small Company is one of the best small cap funds available to you.” The Tributary Small Company fund is managed by Tributary Funds, the mutual fund family of First National Bank.

Mutual Fund Observer noted that “compared to the average small cap core fund, Tributary Small Company has provided higher returns, substantially smaller risks, substantially shorter down periods and substantially better risk-adjusted returns.”

Tributary has been recognized over the years for exceptional service by several industry leaders such as Morningstar, U.S. News and World Report and the Wall Street Journal. Tributary’s strategy is focused on maximizing the opportunities with selling agreements currently in place, as well as building the Tributary brand in the national marketplace.

The Tributary Funds are comprised of six funds including Bond Funds, Balanced Funds and Equity Funds. In early 2016, Tributary Funds launched the Nebraska Tax-Free Fund, which provides tax-advantaged investing for Nebraskans.
