

TAYLOR DANIELS

ACRYLIC, INK, CANVAS

Where the wild things are, that's where you'll find me. And that is where I hope my art takes you.

I've always been inspired by nature, the great outdoors and the creatures who inhabit it. So much so, I made a career out of it. As a zoologist, each day I am surrounded by amazing creatures who provide an endless amount of inspiration for another passion of mine, art. Each piece of art sets to take a playful, bold, colorful, modern or whimsical approach to an animal I've worked with. I start with a sketch from a photo of the animal and go from there. When painting, I am usually choosing my colors on the fly, sometimes changing my mind on the color theme mid painting. I love experimenting with lines, textures and of course, color palettes.

I hope that through my work, I can inform and inspire people about these amazing creatures and their wild counterparts. As I continue to grow as an artist, my goal is to broaden my work into abstract florals and pet portraits.

Thank you for taking the time to get to know me and I hope you enjoy my work!
